When the business men of Cincinnati called upon Governor Willis to ascertain what could be done to secure the passage of the legislation needful to enable the Cincinnati officials to submit the proposals to a vote, they were informed, in effect, And helpless of all counseling. that the Cincinnati delegation must get in line and assist the administration in enacting legislation which the administration Ah, turn your puzzled glances then regarded as of state-wide importance before legislative matters of local importance received administration assistance.

All of which, in connection with several other matters of To where the brooks are loud and like character, is important only as demonstrating the extent to which the executive department is seeking to force action of the legislature in accordance with executive views.

In the meantime the Cincinnati delegation does not ask pardon for the opposition to the executive wish already exhibited by the defeat of the original liquor license law "decentralizer" and does not promise to support the new measure.

The great trouble with legislatures is that the members are so subject to local control, political influence and the demands of office seekers that they lose sight of the great broad principles of state-wide demand which should control their acts.

The present legislature has shown itself to be particularly vulnerable to the influences so destructive of broad comprehensive action that it has become almost imperative that the executive either take some action to relieve the legislative body of the annoyance of the pests seeking political reward or per sonal privilege now swarming about the halls of the general er Michigan, Indiana - Fair Wedassembly or devise some means to compel action notwithstand-nesday and Thursday. ing the pressure of those influences.

It looks a little harsh, however, to hold up the people of day, preceded by showers southeast Cincinnati and halt the necessary public improvements in the Thursday fair. Queen City, in order to whip the Cincinnati delegation into line for administration measures.

The "big stick" of the executive though is a rough one and when it is swung there are bound to be some heads cracked.

If the Cincinnati delegation falls in line the menace to the Queen City's progress will fade away. If not? Well that's another condition which has not yet arisen.

In the meantime, Governor Willis having announced his intention to compel legislative action along lines desired by him, it will be interesting to watch just how an executive who has so repeatedly announced his belief that the legislature should be absolutely free of any control by the executive branch of the state government, will go about the task of compelling obedience to his wishes.

The Austrian Successes

The fortunes of war have been smiling on the Teutons during the last week, especially in the eastern side of the theater of war.

The news of German and Austrian successes in the east come, somewhat, in the nature of a surprise, too, when it is remembered that heavy withdrawals of troops from the east were made for the purpose of strengthening the western battle line in order to carry through an offensive movement against England, France and Belgium and thus weaken the allies in advance of the happening of an expected contingency—the entrance of Italy in the war on the side of the allies.

Had the German successes on the west front been more extensive and more pronounced than they have been it would have created very little surprise even to the commanders of the allied forces.

With the weakened forces in the east, however, little was expected, by expert observers, of the Austrian forces, save to successfully maintain the defensive lines and hold back the onrushing Russians.

In the fighting of Monday, however, the Austrians and Germans were pronouncedly successful all along a sixty mile battle front in the Carpathian mountain region.

The Russian center across the whole western tip of Galicia was smashed and driven back with heavy loss to the Czar's armies. Over eight thousand Russians were taken prisoners and many heavy guns were captured by the Austrian and German forces.

The fighting of Germany and Austria seems to amaze and confound the Russians, who are apparently too slow and unweildy to make much progress or to even successfully engage the Teutonic forces to the extent of furnishing relief to the allies in Flanders.

When the whole situation is summed up there is little in the war news of the day which indicates that either side has been making any substantial progress and that after several weeks of fighting in the promised spring campaign the situation of the contending armies is, practically, the same as that maintained throughout the long terrible winter.

By a vote of 23 to 6 the senate passed the Besaw bill strengthening the present motion picture censor act, by making the exchange or manufac turer furnishing the film co-responsible with the exhibitor, if uncensored films are shown or parts ordered eliminated are not cut out of the film.

The Hoy resolution to submit to the people the question of voting out of the constitution compulsory civil service, which they voted in in 1912, was adopted by the house by a vote of 81 to 17. Its adoption by the senate is expected. It was said by party leaders there was no intention of not putting through the Barnes-Moore civil service bill. One explanation of the heavy vote, so far as the Republicans were concerned, was that submission of the constitutional amendment might stave off a referendum on he Barnes-Moore bill.

The house defeated the Oberlin bill for four year terms for county clerks and for extending the terms of the five letters written by Mr. Barnes to clerks elected last November to August, 1919.

London, May 5 .- The German war office announces a great victory over Russian forces in the fighting between the wooded slopes of the Carpathians and the Vistula. During the first day of an advance in this region, which according to Berlin is being pushed with extraordinary vigor, the Russians were completely routed, losing 21,500 men in prisoners, 16 pteces of Polished artillery, 47 machine guns, a quantity of war material of all kinds and many thousands in killed and wounded.

Elsewhere in the eastern theater of war, says Berlin, all Russian attacks have been repulsed, while to the north, where a German army is rapidly advancing through the Baltic prov inces, the Russians are retreating pell-mell in the direction of Mitau. Already in this territory 4,000 prisoners have been made and considerable booty left at the roadsides by the fleeing Russians has been acquired.

To this the Austrian war office adds in an inspired statement that the strongly established front of the Russian armies between the Vistula and the Carpathians has been occupied on its entire length by victorious Austro-German forces, who have trapped and taken an immense number of prisoneers, now estimated to be 30,000, but increasing with every hour.

Smyrna is being bombarded again by the allied fleet, and an expeditionary force is being landed near Ephe sus, thirty-seven miles northeast of Smyrna. There are reports that the governor of the town is negotiating for its capitulation. North, in the Dardanelles, the allied fleet is contin uing to bombard the fortifications at the Narrows.

GARBLE NATIONALITIES IN SWEEPSTAKES

A curious mixture of nationalities is apparent in the scheduled appearance of John De Palma and J. Porporato in the next Indianapolis 500-mile sweepstakes. De Palma, an Italian, of American naturalization, is to drive a French Delage, while Porporato, a Spaniard, is to handle an English Sunbeam. Both these men have lots of class, De Palma having learned the game as mechanician for his famous brother Ralph, while Porporato won fame in the early days by capturing the 1908 Targo Bologna.

This may be done at the table by holding the cigar by the tip in a glass of drinking water, taking care not to wet the filler, Then wipe the tip end before cutting it off on the napkin. Water revives the tar and restores its natural flavor. What you have previously dried out in the even is not water moisture. It is the bay ram and other spirits which are frequently sprinkled over the ctgars after boxing to keep them looking fresh. Both the wholesaler and the retailer often sprinkle them again before showing them to customers. It is these spirits that impart such a strong odor to clothes in which eigars are carried. Drying and washing afterward will make for a better smoke, to say nothing of better health, in cases where very cheap spirits have been used on the cigars.-Cleveland Plain Dealer
